Other information and Comments

Note SEA is an Equal Opportunity Employer. Any information you present as a prospective staff member is subject to verification including reference checks with past employers and/or verification of academic transcripts, licenses, or certificates. SEA will not solicit from third parties any personal information unrelated to the performance of the job. Failure to provide true and accurate information during the hiring process is grounds for discharge. If you receive a conditional offer of employment and you will be performing duties at sea, SEA will require a recent medical examination (within one year of your starting date of employment) and will require a drug test. Evidence of a medical condition which limits your ability to work at sea, or evidence of a positive drug test will preclude your employment at SEA. Once employed, SEA will require periodic medical exams and drug tests to insure your continuing fitness to perform the duties assigned.
